The Wonder Motor Fuel

A SUPERIOR MOTOR FUEL FOR AUTOMOBILES AND TRUCKS

BENZOLINE is Superior to Gasoline, because it develops more power and more speed, and has other advantages not possessed in Gasoline. When BENZOLINE is used, the driver will at once notice a greater increase in the efficiency of his motor.

Possesses the Following Good Points

1. More Miles per Gallon.
2. More Power.
3. Less Carbon.
4. No Knocks.
5. Reduces Gear Shifting.
6. Easy Hill-Climbing.
7. Quick and Smooth Motor Starting.
8. Gives Better Satisfaction in any make of Motor.
9. Cuts Down Repair Bills.
10. Lengthens Life of Motor.

Benzoline is a wonderful motor fuel which we have developed after long experience. It is far superior to gasoline, and is placed on the market in Wilson for the first time.

BENZOLINE is a Motor Fuel meeting very definite specifications, carrying a fuel value even higher than that of the higher petroleum distillates, and with a quick ignition and perfect vaporization comparable only to that of the very highest types of aeronautical gasoline and even exceeding them.

BENZOLINE is not a mystery compound, but is made of ingredients having the same properties as Gasoline, but with higher power and more efficiency, and can, therefore, be used wherever gasoline is used as a motor fuel, and with far more success and satisfaction.

BENZOLINE is recognized as the best motor fuel of the 20th century. It burns completely, and, as all the fuel is consumed, there is no crank case dilution or carbon. Laboratory and service tests have proven its superiority over Gasoline. The water in your radiator will not heat as quickly with Benzoline as with Gasoline, and frequent carburetor adjustments are not necessary.

It can be used in the same tank with gasoline, and in exactly the same manner as gasoline. It even makes the gasoline better.

The motorist using BENZOLINE first notices that his car starts easier, particularly when cold; that his motor responds much quicker and is more flexible. He takes hills on high that previously were difficult in second, and his motor does not knock, even when laboring. Besides these physical advantages immediately noticed, he soon realizes that he is obtaining greater mileage, has no more carbon troubles, no crank case dilution and that the general operation of his motor is very much improved.

It is being used with the greatest satisfaction and pleasure, and responds to every test demanded of it. It develops a greater ease and motor action than any motor fuel ever before used. As it vaporizes completely, there is no choking of the engine or cylinder from carbon deposits; but because of its high power, drives out carbon deposited by inferior grades of Gasoline; therefore, keeps your motor in good and clean condition.

OUR MERCHANTS SELL BETTER GOODS THAN ITINERANT PEDDLERS

Women Should be Loyal to the Home Store and Help Wilson Grow.

Past experience of the buying public demonstrates that merchandise purchased at home from reliable merchants and manufacturers is more satisfactory than the supposed bargains purchased from the itinerant merchant that cares nothing for the welfare of the community, but only desires to dispose of his often inferior goods, leaving the community to solve its own problems of financing itself by taxation, etc. Often these purchases are made by women unthinkingly from the itinerant non-resident vendors, not realizing that their husbands are striving daily in advocating the advertising to show the public the advantage of patronizing home industries by:

First. Retaining every available dollar in Wilson.

Second. By satisfying the customer by exchange of goods.

Third. By extending a reasonable amount of credit.

Fourth. By being a reliable home merchant and liable for mistakes and misrepresentation.

A point frequently overlooked by the buying public is that all citizens are engaged in some business or other, including laborers, mechanics, merchants, manufacturers or in the professions.

To illustrate, a doctor's wife being called upon by an itinerant with a patent medicine for sale.

What is the wife's first thought? Why, that her husband is a physician and their living is made by his practice, and that such imposters should not be patronized.

So it is with all other homes in the city.

Mrs. B.'s husband is a grocer. A non-resident vendor selling dry goods, furs and ladies' ready-to-wear, calls upon Mrs. B. and see how quickly she will buy his wares and pay exorbitant prices. Had this vendor offered her groceries, she would have frankly informed him that her husband was in the grocery business.

How often is the husband clamoring for home patronage in his particular line of business, while his wife is at home purchasing from itinerant vendors, sending her orders to mail order houses or assisting the neighbors in making up a mail order house club.

Some persons say "we are unable to buy at home just what we wish." It is conceded that may be the case in some instances. But, did you ever call the attention of your home merchant to see whether or not he could not supply your wants?

All this does not apply alone to the consuming public, but is also applicable to merchants that complain of the numerous abuses of their business.

But one might ask the local merchant "how much are you doing to make Wilson prosper and grow?"

You have howled about patronizing home trade.

Are you doing it yourself?

Be careful, now, of what you are going to say. Several local manufacturers and jobbers say they do not get the support of the home merchant. Why? Take an inventory of yourself and see what lines of merchandise you are handling and see what proportion you can purchase from your home jobbers, manufacturers or laborers. Let him who makes the first complaint of not patronizing home industry see that he is doing unto others what he would that others would do unto him.
